IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE MIDDLE DISTRICT OF ALABAMA NORTHERN DIVISION

CEDRIC BENNETT,

Plaintiff *

Plaintiff,

v. * Civil Case No.: 2:07-cv-325-MEF-TFM

OFFICER MICHAEL PATRICK, in his individual and official capacities, and CITY OF BRANTLEY, ALABAMA, * Defendants.

BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO PROCEED IN FORMA PAUPERIS

The Court has directed counsel for Plaintiff herein to file a brief in support of his motion to proceed in forma pauperis (Doc. 3). In compliance therewith, Plaintiff would show the Court as follows:

This case arises from an incident in which Plaintiff was gratuitously subjected to assault by Taser at the hands of defendant Patrick. Plaintiff seeks damages.

In moving for leave to proceed in forma pauperis, Plaintiff seeks to avail himself of the benefits of 28 U.S.C. § 1915. The only statutory requirement to proceed under that statute is good faith and does not require that the underlying claim be meritorious. See Ellis v. United States, 356 U.S. 674 (1958) (per curiam); Martinez v. Bureau of Prisons, 444 F.3d 620, 624 (C.A.D.C.,2006)

Plaintiff acknowledges that there is no absolute right to proceed in forma pauperis, that it is a privilege, and that the Court has broad discretion in the matter. Parsell v. U. S., 218 F.2d 232 (5th Cir. 1955); 28 U.S.C.A. § 1915. As a district court in Texas has opined, however,

In exercising this discretion, courts have formulated the following legal tests to carry out the purpose of section 1915: Is petitioner barred from the Federal Courts by reason of his impecunity? Souder v. McGuire, 516 F.2d 820 (3rd Cir. 1975); Is access to the courts blocked by the imposition of an undue hardship? Startti v. United States, 415 F.2d 1115 (5th Cir. 1969); Is petitioner forced to contribute his last dollar, or render himself destitute to prosecute his claim? Adkins v. E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 335 U.S. 331, 337, 69 S.Ct. 85, 88, 93 L.Ed. 43 (1948).

Carter v. Telectron, Inc., 452 F.Supp. 939, 943 (D.C.Tex., 1976).

More specifically, the Supreme Court in Adkins (op. cit.) emphasized the importance of keeping the federal courts open to meritorious claims:

We cannot agree with the court below that one must be absolutely destitute to enjoy the benefit of the statute. We think an affidavit is sufficient which states that one cannot because of his poverty 'pay or give security for the costs * * * and still be able to provide' himself and dependents 'with the necessities of life.' To say that no persons are entitled to the statute's benefits until they have sworn to contribute to payment of costs, the last dollar they have or can get, and thus make themselves and their dependents wholly destitute, would be to construe the statute in a way that would throw its beneficiaries into the category of public charges. The public would not be profited if relieved of paying costs of a particular litigation only to have imposed on it the expense of supporting the person thereby made an object of public support. Nor does the result seem more desirable if the effect of this statutory interpretation is to force a litigant to abandon what may be a meritorious claim in order to spare himself complete destitution. We think a construction of the statute achieving such consequences is an inadmissible one.

Adkins, 335 U.S. 331, at 339-340.

In the present case, Plaintiff has declared – under penalty of perjury – that he is unemployed, has no assets, and cannot afford to pay a filing fee, as his affidavit (previously submitted) affirmatively shows. Plaintiff is just the sort of litigant that the in forma pauperis statute was designed to benefit, lest the courts be closed to him for want of money.

The Court has also directed counsel to address the appropriateness of requested relief in light of the fact that he is represented by counsel. The undersigned counsel respectfully suggests that the fact of representation should make no difference to the appropriateness of the requested relief.

The Supreme Court's Adkins decision also addressed the issue of lawyers for indigent petitioners, concluding that poor persons have the same right as rich persons to hire lawyers without that fact affecting the question of their indigency:

The statute here under consideration is not susceptible of a construction that would impose more burdens on lawyers employed by litigants unable to pay fees except on a contingent basis, than the burdens imposed on lawyers for those litigants who are able to employ counsel by the year or by payment of straight noncontingent fees. Section 3 of the statute specifically states that litigants who make affidavits of poverty shall be entitled to the same court processes, have the same right to the attendance of witnesses, and the same remedies as are provided by law in other cases. And as pointed out, s 4 of the statute makes it abundantly clear that poor litigants shall have the same opportunity to be represented by counsel as litigants in more fortunate financial circumstances. The statutory construction urged by respondent here would result in restricting the opportunities of the poor litigant in getting a lawyer who would follow his case through the appellate courts. For as was said by the District Court in Clark v. United States, D.C., 57 F.2d 214, 216: "* * The same poverty that compels a litigant to avail himself of this beneficent statute makes it impossible for him to hire counsel. He can procure counsel only by agreeing that out of the proceeds of his case, if there are proceeds, counsel shall be compensated. * * * In practical effect he (a poor litigant) is denied counsel if his counsel must either himself guarantee the costs or file an affidavit that he also is penniless. The statute was intended for the benefit of those too poor to pay or give security for costs, and it was not intended that they should be compelled to employ only paupers to represent them.'

Adkins, 335 U.S. 331, at 343-344.

The undersigned counsel does hereby certify that his representation of Plaintiff is on a contingent basis pursuant to a written fee agreement, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED on this the 18th day of April, 2007.
